Life at Fairmont West is a thing of beauty—
to Jan Schuerholz, Jim Lynn, Paul Gruner, Judy Blome, Jim Mullen, Martha Apple, Gloria Morningstar, Dave Maltby, Beth Nolan, Jim Twohig, Marc Shoemaker, Nancy Balis, Jaine Williams,
Bob Viets while on outing at Hills and Dales.

Years of trials and failures, successes and experiences, pioneer the making of a school year such as that of 1965-66.
 Recalling past ventures and accomplishments, students reach for opportunities to make their mark upon the annals of school history.
 With pride and appreciation, the sophomore, junior, and senior classes perpetuate the distinction that is synonymous with the name of Fairmont West.
 For them, honor is not gauged by victories or by awards;
 it is revealed in the lives of the students themselves and the ways in which they live with and for their school.
 Finding the term "yearbook" to be incomplete, the 1966 Dragon is designed not to be the "book of a year," but the "book of one year resulting from the growth and advancements of many."
 To relate the desires and goals, the progress and achievements of the Westonians of '66—
 this is the purpose of the Dragon.
 Its pages burst with the newest contributions to the reputation of Fairmont West.

presentation of professional performances

Farmont West's two choruses, the 4th and 5th period choruses, are the most enthusiastic and interested in music in the school.

Appearing at the P.T.A. sponsored Christmas program, the choruses introduced the season for the school. The 4th period chorus members wearing the school's purple robes held the parents in awe as they listened to the accomplishments of two months' work. West's 5th period girls' chorus wearing weskits of purple over white skirts proved to have a harmony unsurpassed by other years.

Additional guest performance was given at the annual Christmas program when the chorus combined with the school orchestra to perform the main work of "Song of Christmas." Singing for the members of the A.B.C. Club at the Van Cleve Hotel provided another opportunity for the choruses to benefit from their knowledge of music by both being able to enjoy their own singing as well as being enjoyed by their audience.

Climax of the year's activities was the presentation of the Broadway musical, "Damn Yankees" to a four-night capacity audience.

Rating "Superior" in the state competition in 1965, West's singing groups under the direction of Mr. Gene Seeberger will continue to inspire and to be a challenge to those interested in vocal music.

Symphonic Band concerts denote heights

Mr. Wesley Harnes, director of the Fairmont West Symphonic Band, is seen in the foreground of a recent performance.

Consisting of a full family of woodwind, brass, and percussion instruments, the Fairmont West Symphonic Band plays selections ranging from classical to contemporary works.

Highlighting the musical season is the winter concert given in February. Featuring guest artist, Donnie Santa, an internationally known saxophone virtuoso, the band performed such audience-winning numbers as "Concerto for Alto Saxophone" by Berlioz, "Adagio and Samba" by Whitney, and "West Side Story" by Bernstein.

With ninety-two members of the band participate in district and state contests as well as making guest appearances. Annually, band members submit original compositions in competition for a scholarship of up to two hundred dollars which is donated by the parents.

Under the competent direction of Mr. Wesley Harnes and his assistant, Mr. David Finkam, the Symphonic Band performs to heights of excellence in all of its endeavors.

Participation in the Fairmont West High School Orchestra aids in developing a wide variety of appreciation of classical, semi-classical, musical comedy selections, and music of current times. Strengthening the social consciousness is the responsibility of its members, as well as providing an opportunity to enjoy themselves through music.

West's Orchestra performs at school, civic and similar community events. It participates in contests striving to attain a high degree of personal and group accomplishment. Most important event of the year is the orchestra's participation in the State Orchestra Contest held every spring in Columbus. Fairmont West's Orchestra achieves excellent ratings in these contests. Playing for the annual operetta class plays, and presenting two yearly formal concerts adds to the orchestra's many varied activities for its members.

Guest artist for the orchestra during its winter concert, was Miss Nancie Fisher, a senior at Fairmont West and an accomplished musician.

After sending in application for Regional Orchestra, a qualified and talented student may be eligible for the All-State Orchestra. Five of the 59 talented members of the orchestra actively engaged in the All-State Orchestra are: John MacBain, Jim Utzinger, Ken Clark, Randy Reagan, and Dennis Herron.

Miss L. E. Funn's version of the Bible story was a very successful production. Through a series of presentations, some of the orchestra made crew, the student or band, and West's fine speech department made the play a credit to the entire student body.

Jezebel, played by Jezebel, and Ahab, played by Ahab, were the main characters. The play was a success, and the entire student body enjoyed it.

Comments on the play should be commended for the overwhelming success of Jezebel. However, special commendation must go to Miss L. E. Funn, who did a fine job writing and directing the play.

Realizing their opportunity to win the pennant has arrived. Mr. Weir, the team owner; Van Buren, the manager and a local players welcome the young hero.

Mr. Applegate's problems remain unsolved because Gloria Thorpe, reporter, accuses Joe of being Shifty McCoy, who took a bribe in the Mexican League. Joe becomes increasingly restless and yearns to return to his wife. Attempting to settle this problem, Mr. Applegate sends for a 172-year-old witch, recently turned into a young temptress.

Climaxing in a courtroom scene on the 24th, Meg and her friends testify that Joe is not Shifty McCoy, Midnight passer and Joe belongs to Mr. Applegate. With a lightning catch the following day, Washington wins the pennant just as Mr. Applegate transforms Joe into his former self. Joe Boyd returns to Meg who warmly welcomes him.

Under the excellent direction of Mr. Gene Seaberger, Mr. Don Detrick, Mr. Leland Hall and students, Donna Coffey, Barb Knipp and Raymonde Nicely, the musical was truly a sensation.

During the winter months, the people of the region engage in a variety of activities, including bonfires, plays, and dances.

Sometimes at Fairmont, Wisconsin, a wide variety of interesting and enlightening activities are provided. Among these are the dances themselves, the plays, the dances, and the dances. Each produces a play.

Many activities are under the direction of the Junior Council on World Affairs. Among its more interesting activities are a dictionary and publicity for the National Week.

But even during the festive season, the spirit of a winter holiday is maintained. Festivities are lightened by a visit from Santa.

West's Culture Fair uniquely displaying our American heritage is the tremendous brainchild of Mr. Hugh Brown, an East Unit Social Studies teacher. Through such exhibits as: Music; Food, Clothing and Home Decor; Art and Literature; and Warfare; Mr. Brown's first period sociology class created an excellent and enjoyable portrayal of our cultural development.

Many of West's curious-minded students attended the Culture Fair and discovered six bright and educational displays.

It is hoped that the Culture Fair will be continued as a tool of learning to help West students better appreciate their American heritage.

Dynamic Dragons end with 5-5 record

Pat Combs stops elusive Xenia ballcarrier.

Losing the first three games failed to depress the dynamic Dragon spirit. Each of these opponents had previously appeared in the listing of the "top ten" football powers in the state.

West appeared to gain momentum with the opening of the Western Ohio League season by defeating Xenia 34-0. Then things began to click, the key to West's success being the jolting offensive play coupled with the bruising defense.

Experienced veterans in virtually every position proved to be both inspirational and challenging to Coach Robert Hildreth.

Following the Xenia victory, the Dragon spirit continued to soar by winning five consecutive Western Ohio League games. West's grade-point average continued to improve in spirit and ability, coming out ahead in virtually every game.

Statistics confirm West's potential by its gaining a total of 134 first downs in contrast to the opponents' 129; West's net yards gained totaled 2338 as compared to 2060 by other teams.

After being upset by Springfield North 27-6, the Dragons faced a show-down situation for the WOL championship against a strong Fairborn squad. Although West played the best game of its season, the team was edged by Fairborn 12-7; and thus for the second year in a row taking second place in the Western Ohio League play.

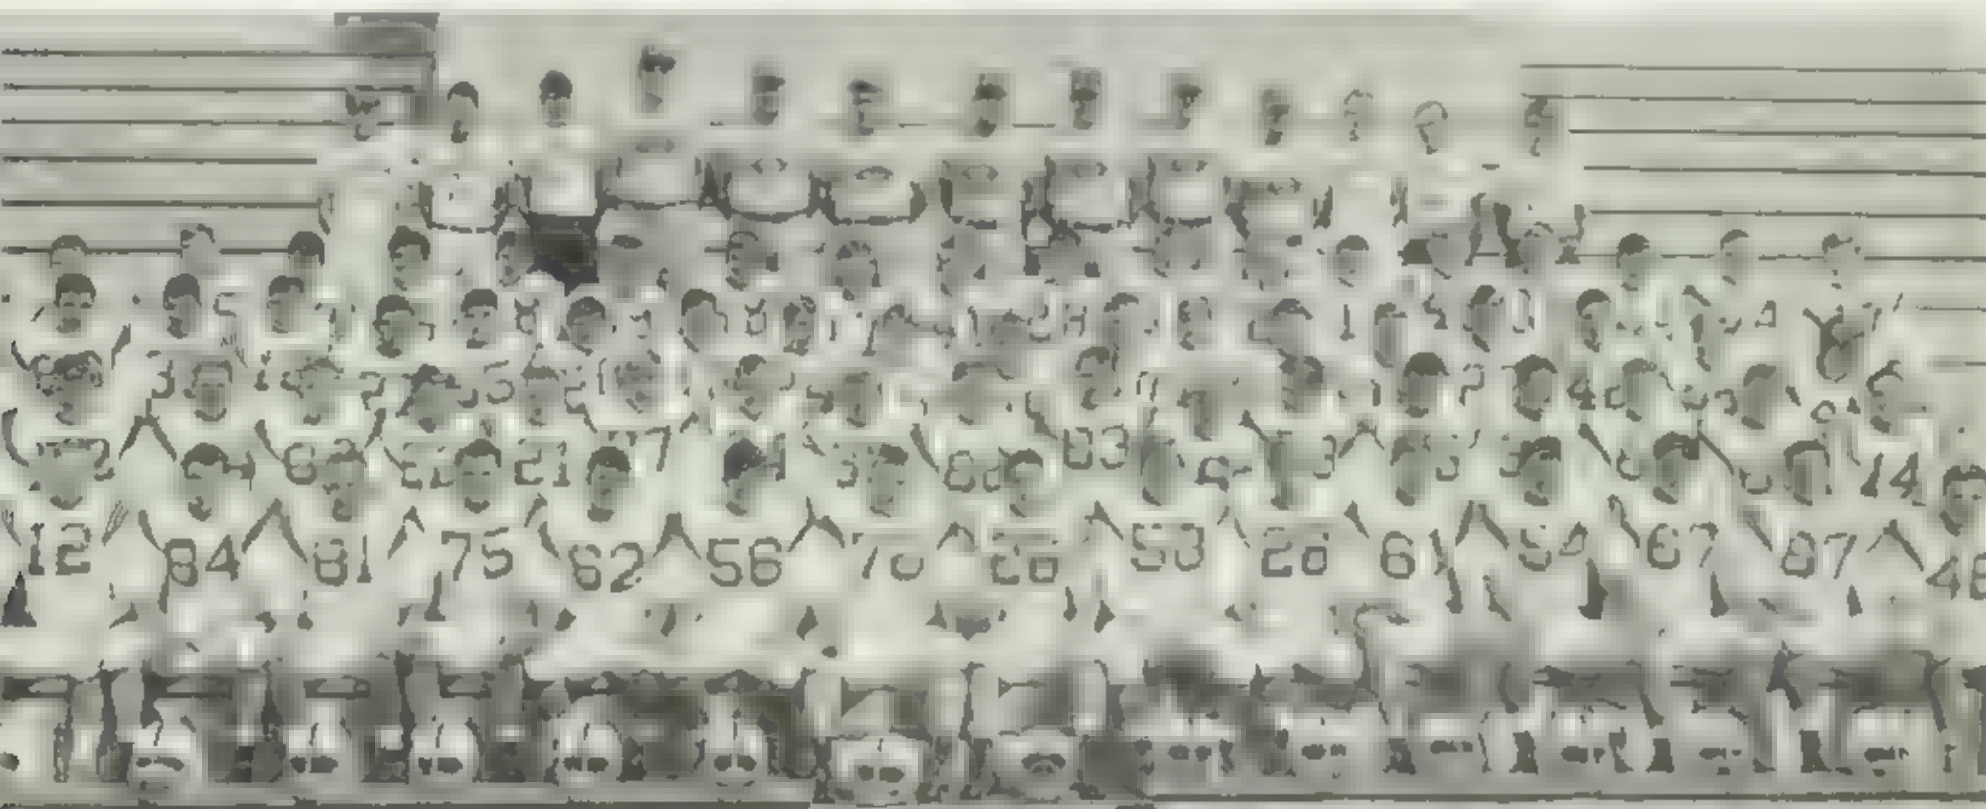

Discussing game strategy, enthusiasm of coach Robert Hildreth inspires senior quarterback, John Armbruster.

Over the season with perennial tough Middlebury Dragons were beaten by a battered five-year-old underdog team from a state interfered from Drey West. Despite the fact that they were a game period in a very long war, the team ended a 100-year-old Middlebury. Final score was 47-0.

Traveling to Springfield, the following week West was defeated 22-0 by Springfield South. With only two minutes left in the game, the time were tipped out in the last of the game.

Playing a very strong game, the upset-minded Dragons must beat Champlain the next evening. A well-known West led at halftime 14-0. Champlain's defense was not as good and erratic passing from behind the Dragons 20-0.

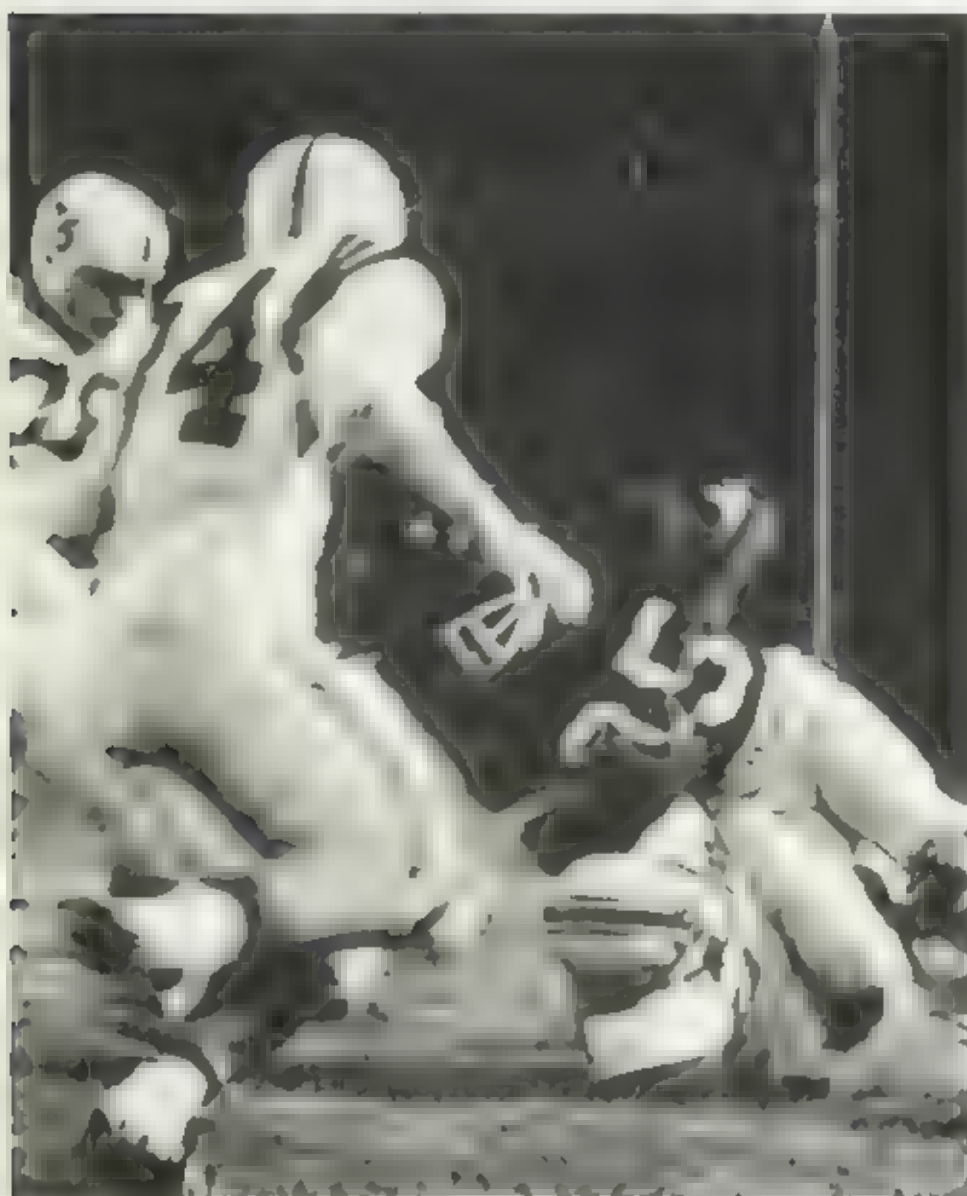

Carrying the ball Tim Modger had himself cornered behind a line of scrimmage by Springfield North defender.

Opening WOOL play with a strong offensive attack and a hard-nosed defense to stop Xenia 34-0, the Dragons continued on their winning ways by then defeating Beavercreek and Stebbins the next two weekends with identical 27-0 scores.

Against Wayne, the Dragons proved they could handle the conditions, as they beat the Warriors in a real mud bath 46-21. The next game, the Dragons showed they could come from behind to win by defeating our crosstown rivals, Fairmont East, by the sound score of 27-7.

West was looking ahead too much and was upset by a strong Springfield North team 27-6, as they completely throttled West's high scoring offensive machine, resulting in a slowdown game with Fairborn for the WOOL championship.

West drew first blood by capitalizing on Fairborn's mistakes and so went in at halftime with a 7-0 lead. Second half was a different story, as a hard rain put a damper on West's attack. Fighting for every inch of ground was to no avail as a strong Fairborn team pushed across two second half touchdowns and stopped a late rally by West to win the game and the championship 27-7.

Xenia, boasting a strong record in pre-league games, outshot the Dragon cage at Xenia. Good shooting on both sides kept the game at a close margin until foul difficulty proved costly to West.

During the Beavercreek West clash, the Beaver team got strong in the last quarter to catch the Dragons 71-66. This loss dimmed considerably any hopes for a WOJ crown.

Farmon West basketball took a turn for the better. Stebbins fell before the Dragons as they started what was to be a six game winning streak. Strong rebounding and balanced scoring gave West a convincing 80-63 victory. Against Springfield South the next night the Dragons really got rolling. At this point in the schedule, the Dragons needed to really buckle down as they then copped 4th place in the Stebbins Invitational, the "Tournament of Champions" only one point from second place Belmont and Northmont.

It takes lots of hard work, and determination to make a good wrestling team, and this is just what the Dragons were made of as they took 3rd place in their own Fairmont West Invitational. Coach Don Perry and the gymnastic team came through with another successful season, a 5-3 record and several high-ranking places in three invitational tournaments. Although plagued with injuries, the Dragon gymnasts placed third in the Hamilton Taft Invitational. They grabbed the second place trophy at their own Invitational, and took second place to defending champions Fairmont East in the Western Ohio League meet.

Overall success of the season resulted from the extensive individual efforts of the team members. Coach Perry remarked that this was one of the most spirited, most coachable teams he has ever had. Team's strong events included high bar, trampoline, and side horse. Gene Gilbert working free exercise, tumbling, and long horse vaulting, was high scorer for the year. Efforts of Joe DeHaven and Doug Keister on the high bar, Fred Rowland and Dave Sachleben on the trampoline, and George Taylor and Mike Steuert on the side horse proved to be extremely important to the team's scoring.

Gymnastics continues as a growing sport in the state of Ohio and the competition is increasing at a fast rate. With the success and spirit of this team, gymnastics promises to become extremely important to Fairmont West's future athletic program.

Sixteen senior girls comprise the Office Education program, better known as C.O.E. On-the-job training and work experience along with school study are the basic components of the course.

Obtaining interviews with prospective employers affords opportunities for various part time employment.

Requirements for C.O.E. emphasize typing, shorthand, and clerical skills. Participants in the program constantly gain business experience which will greatly assist them in furthering their careers.

Mr. Joe Lower coordinates the work-study program at the local level.

Providing inter-denominational fellowship opportunities for Christian youth is the basic purpose of Youth for Christ.

Bi-weekly meetings include speakers, discussion groups, films, music, skits, and parties. Members meet other Youth for Christ members from the area and country by participating in national conventions, service projects, speech and music contests, Bible quizzing, and rallies.

Students involved in the Youth for Christ program find the individual is provided with the occasion to develop leadership abilities and a proper mental, physical, social and moral balance.

Wanda Enley, right, agrees it is most rewarding to be a Youth for Christ member.

Programming by ICC co-ordinates events

Compacting the presidents of a number of clubs at Farmington West the Inter-Club Council meet once every month. As a result of this Mr. Paul Warner serves as a liaison with the president of the club.

For the ICC, the main aim is to bring about a means of co-operation between the clubs, promoting better understanding and giving the clubs a chance to exchange ideas. If the opportunity to benefit from the experience and to help other organizations to do the same, and providing a meeting with parties that may develop plans and report for any work they do.

Members of the club have wanted to produce effective results in the coordination of all events at West.

Magic of numbers motivates mathematicians

Math Club members [Name] and [Name] are shown in the photo above.

For those students who desire to pursue a career in the field of mathematics, Math Club is the answer. Through this club they satisfy their quest for knowledge of fractions, decimals, and integers.

Students are encouraged to acquire facts and formulas, and to apply them in a variety of situations. They are also encouraged to solve problems.

Members are also encouraged to learn new math tricks and solve problems.

The club was founded by the Club members, who were members of the club.

Learning through experimental and research is the aim of the Science Club's activities. A journey into the vast wonderland of science leads members toward an understanding of the scientific method.

Members this year have attempted to coordinate special areas of interest and the club has been experimenting to explore the nature of the requirements of life on other planets. By varying atmospheric conditions and observing the effects of the changes upon the plants, members put to use their proficiencies in biology, chemistry, and physics.

Under the guidance of the Science Club advisors, Mr. M. burn Hines and Mr. Elby Tackert, science enthusiasts find satisfaction from hours spent in probing for knowledge and understanding.

Radio-Electronics encourages shop learning

Student is working on his project in the Radio-Electronics shop.

Radio-Electronics has contributed much to the development of radio technology in West. Through the efforts of a few members, they find that it is possible to make their own radio sets and more personal to them.

As a result of the project, it was found that the shop is a place for which was devoted to the shop. Only through the hard work and careful planning of interested members was the project able to be completed. Under the direction of Mr. Wayne Williams, the shop has been beneficial to many members, but to the school as well.

As an aid to their learning, Bryan Havestock and Neil T. Hart, learn to service a radio under the competent supervision of club adviser M. Wayne Williams.

AFS sponsors student exchange program

American Field Service, a new organization at Fairmont West, offers opportunities to meet foreign exchange students and to stimulate interest in the program.

Early in the fall, student warmly welcomed Anders Milton, Fairmont West's foreign exchange student from Sweden, at the reception held in his honor. Given by the club and Mr. Paul Wagner, its adviser, the event served to acquaint Anders with his new surroundings.

AFS Day found several exchange students from the area spending the day at Fairmont West and participating in an interesting and informative assembly.

Highlighting the year's activities was an interesting German movie depicting life in that country. Adding entertainment to the agenda, the club sponsored an after game dance.

Torch and Keystone designates Fairmont West chapter of National Honor Society. Faculty chooses members of the organization in conformity with rules established by the National Association of Secondary School Principals. Based on eligibility and excellence in scholarship, leadership, service and character, membership to this esteemed group is quite an honor.

Torch and Keystone members remain active throughout the year with numerous and wide-spread projects. Appearing on W.L.W. TV's "Teen Scene" presented a challenge in which West finished victoriously. Highlighting the activities are the Christmas party and the annual picnic held each spring.

Enjoying a welcome moment of friendly discussion between studies are Torch and Keystone officers: Ed Kaat, Treasurer; Lynn Giron, Secretary; Joe Hedrick, Vice President; and E. Lemme, President.

Editing a school paper is a great responsibility for all those involved. Playing a major role it is the main link between students and current news items.

Published bi-monthly Dragon Tales keeps students up to date on club activities, academic honors and athletic events. Conducting interesting opinion polls reveals many humorous facts about people on West's campus. Articles such as Spirogyra add variety to the paper. Informative lead stories relate important events in detail. Letters to the Editor provide the greatly needed opportunity for students to air their ideas and opinions.

Producing a fine paper takes time as well as money. Fourth period finds all staff members working diligently to meet deadlines. Selling advertisements offers the perfect chance to gain money for staff expenses.

Capable principals guide students and faculty

Mr. Alfred Blender, Principal of Kettering City Schools, and Mr. Paul Wagner, Assistant Principal, are the two capable and dedicated administrators of the Kettering City Schools.

Kettering City Schools is fortunate to have two capable and dedicated administrators for its principal. Mr. Alfred Blender and Mr. Paul Wagner are responsible for coordinating the activities of the school and for maintaining its public relations. They are both active in community affairs and serve the school well as its representatives in the Kettering area.

Mr. Blender, who recently served as president of the Kettering Kiwanis Club, is assisted in his school responsibilities by Mr. Wagner, who takes charge of the guidance and testing programs as well as serving as advisor to Teachers Keynote West's chapter of the National Honor Society.

Finally, it is toward the student and teacher dedication in their academic help our principals to make West the best.

Fairmont West's extensive curriculum and activities require efficient secretaries to lighten the load of administration and faculty. Students find secretaries courteous and helpful in finding answers to their many questions.

Main office secretaries, Mrs. Charlotte Robinson and Mrs. Betty Goetcheus, aid Principal Mr. Alfred Bolender and Mr. Paul Wagner. Mrs. Jean Thomas, bookkeeper, sees that all financial records are accurate. These three capable individuals help make the task of running a large school operate more smoothly.

Unit secretaries: Mrs. Laura Stuckey, East; Mrs. Evelyn Brown, Central; and Mrs. Evelyn Sorenson, West; maintain records on each of the students in her unit. Some of the daily jobs of unit secretaries include announcements, directions, duplicated material, scholarship sign-ups, summer school information, tardy blanks, and transcripts.

Fairmont West's six office secretaries offer valuable services to both the administration and the student body. All recognize their well-trained efficiency and appreciate their courteous assistance.

guidance services aid student development

Guidance services assist individual student to make the most of his own abilities and opportunities while in school. Each unit at West has two counselors ready to help each member of the student body.

Selection of courses and program planning are important decisions for each student. Counselors advise concerning these choices.

In sophomore and junior years, group instruction helps to prepare the student to select a vocational field, be a better student, choose a school or college more wisely, and achieve greater personal satisfaction.

Bulletins and catalogues may be borrowed to aid student and his parents in selecting schools and colleges. Information about job applications, college admission, and scholarships is one of the many services provided by West's well-trained counselors.

Standardized tests for mental ability, aptitudes, interests, and achievement play an important part in the guidance program.

Westonians gain valuable knowledge and Considering the necessity of today's communications, sound communications among people become increasingly important. Fairmount West's English Department places special emphasis on developing the ability to communicate effectively.

Mr. Paul Evans, English Coordinator, stresses the importance of learning to speak and write clearly and intelligently. Through the use of new English books which contain variable sections covering correct language usage and punctuation and constant grammar and composition, these skills become more valuable and applicable to daily life.

Encouraging good reading habits is also an essential part of the well-rounded English program.
Each grade level has a list of suggested reading materials. By exploring some of the possibilities of the list, students develop ideas in various areas of literature. In addition, teachers not only aid students in developing what they read but also show them how they can write creatively.

Fame of Fairmont's forensics is constant

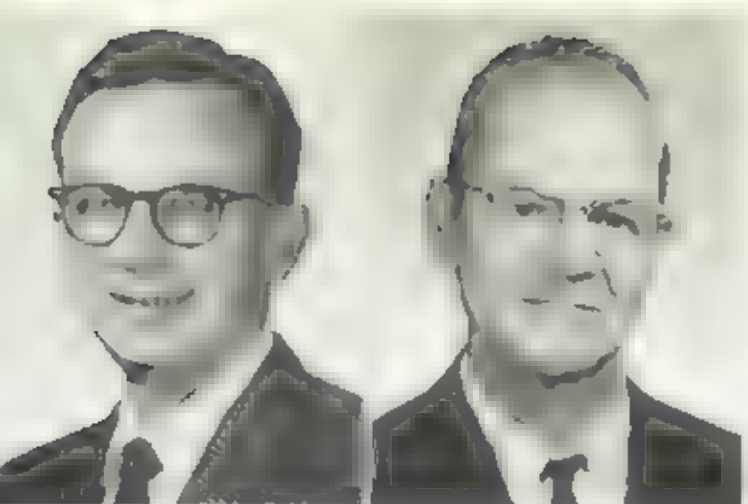

Mr. George Tarzinski and Nancy Music agree that learning better English is definitely an enjoyable experience.

West's outstanding speech department is, once again, establishing high standards of performance. Under the direction of Miss Leah Funk and Mr. Joseph Kuldau, speech and debate are carrying on West's excellent reputation for superior forensics in a tri-state area.

Throughout the year, members of the two speech organizations, the National Forensic League and Thespians, are called upon to perform for various school functions. Jezebel, written by Miss Funk and given as the senior class play, will long be remembered at West as one of its finest productions.

Speech and debate teams travel to various high schools to compete. Team members are students who express a desire and talent to compete. In Junior English classes which combine English fundamentals and speech or debate, students learn to apply the principles of speech and debate to everyday situations. To qualify for these classes, a student must have maintained a B average or better in English during his sophomore year.

Many Fairmont students participate in the Foreign Language Study Tour during the summer months. Students gain practical application of their knowledge of language as they visit foreign countries.

Today's world situation makes necessary communication with peoples of foreign countries. Different cultures create different ideas and a knowledge of these cultures enables us to understand foreign actions and decisions which may affect our own way of life.

Social studies — Westonians' key to success

Mr. Robert Janes makes the adventurous days of yore come alive through his fascinating world history class.

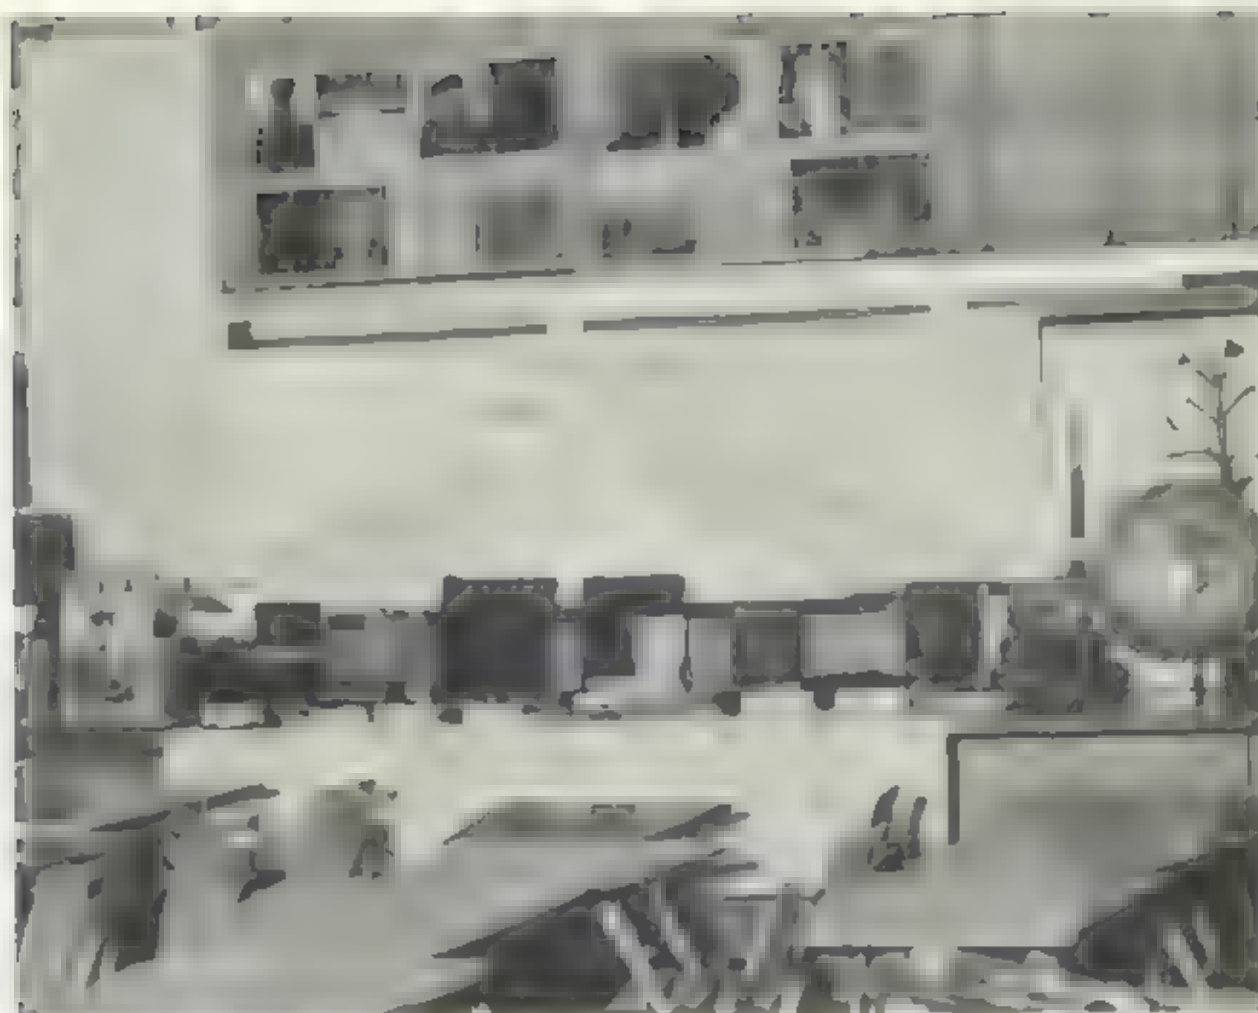

World events are becoming increasingly more important in the life of each individual as his world grows smaller and smaller. As the leaders of the generation of tomorrow, Westonians need to combine a firm knowledge of the happenings of the past with a clear perception of current events. World peace can only be accomplished when the people of the world learn to use the mistakes of former times to avoid blunders in the future.

To achieve better relations with one's neighbors he must know something of their various environments. World geography not only teaches the area and resources of each country, but also the effect of these factors upon the importance of each country in world events.

It is essential that each American take great pride in his country. American history makes each junior aware of his heritage and of the pains and innumerable problems which had to be overcome to make this country as great as it is today by tracing its history from its simple beginnings in 1492 through the courageous fights for freedom for all men, to the present space program and political occurrences students gain insight into past heritage.

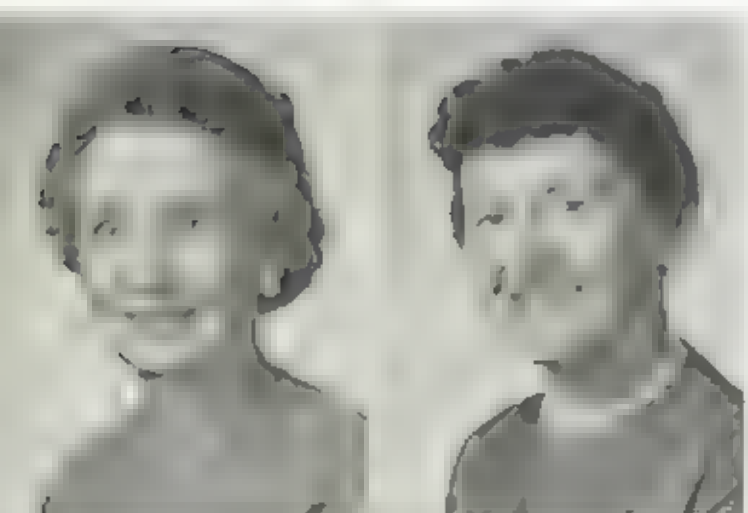

Civics, sociology, and economics aid students in growing into the title "American."

exceptional talent

Fairmont West offers its students the finest facilities available for art and music. West's well-rounded program offers innumerable opportunities for both personal and community enrichment. Art classes in East and West units provide students with opportunities for gaining knowledge of various art forms. This knowledge aids in forming a more interesting personality for each individual.

Music occupies a great amount of time in the curricular and extra-curricular activities at West. Overwhelming numbers of students participate in the mixed chorus, girls' chorus, band, orchestra and Rhythmettes. West's outstanding musical productions, such as Damn Yankees (given in April to a capacity crowd), concerts featuring guest artists such as Joy Clements (soloist with the Metropolitan Opera) and various other superior programs help to develop an invaluable appreciation of fine music in each of its students.

Besides promoting culture through art and music, West encourages the selection of excellent reading materials by maintaining one of the finest libraries in the state. Reference books, which cover all areas of research, as well as periodicals, documentaries, and an outstanding selection of books for hours of reading pleasure, help to fill the many well-supplied and up-to-date sections.

Personal attention to student math problems

Math teacher Mr. Benson gives help to a student in a math class.

Washington's math program offers something for everyone. This math department provides courses ranging from elementary arithmetic to college level.

For a fast-track student, the program begins in the eighth grade where enriched algebra I is available. Enriched algebra II and enriched geometry follow. In his junior year, the student takes algebra III and trigonometry, and then advanced math IV.

Most students start their math studies in the ninth grade with algebra I; algebra II, geometry, and advanced geometry/trigonometry course follows. For the first time, there are now more opportunities for students to take math for the interested student who wants more credit in math, that the general math meets their needs.

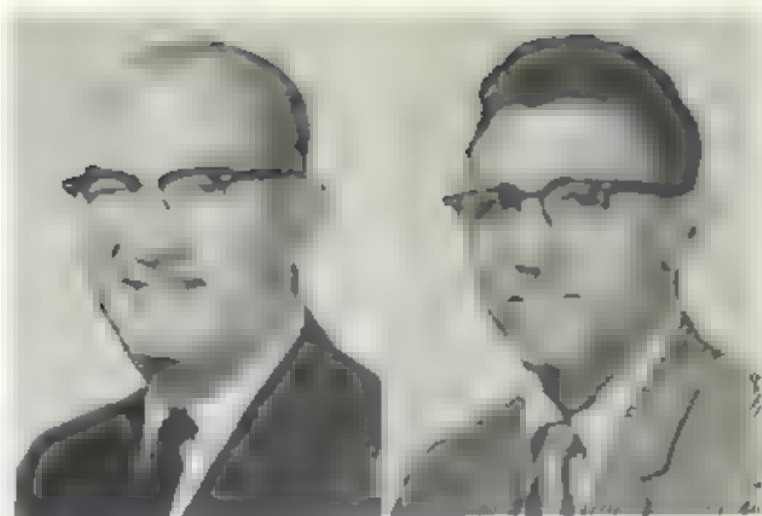

Heeded by Mr. Allen Fugere, the math department continues to offer an interesting program of studies.

Math teacher Mr. Fugere points to a chalkboard.

Teachers improve West's science program

Fairmont West's science program has expanded this year, and now, for the first time, it includes a college-level physics course, in which students pursue projects on their own to further explore areas which interest them. These students are the products of a generally strong science program, with course offerings in all areas of the scientific spectrum.

For the beginner, there is biology; students whose interests lie in this area may take chemistry and then biology II. Students whose talents lie in the field of physics may take two years of that subject, including the college-level course. On Saturday mornings, a seminar is available to chemistry students. In this age of specialization, West has not forgotten those who wish a broad and general knowledge of the sciences; two courses in general science are offered.

In all of these varied classes, the emphasis is placed upon laboratory work. This develops student's confidence in themselves and thus enables them to work well in the complicated courses which they will follow in their college years.

Science teacher, Mr. Elby Tackett, and student, Jan Schmaenke, demonstrate the many properties of a substance, with the aid of the recently purchased C. S. Moller counter.

Industrial arts encourages students to explore

Mr. Hans Holztrager instructs students in industrial arts.

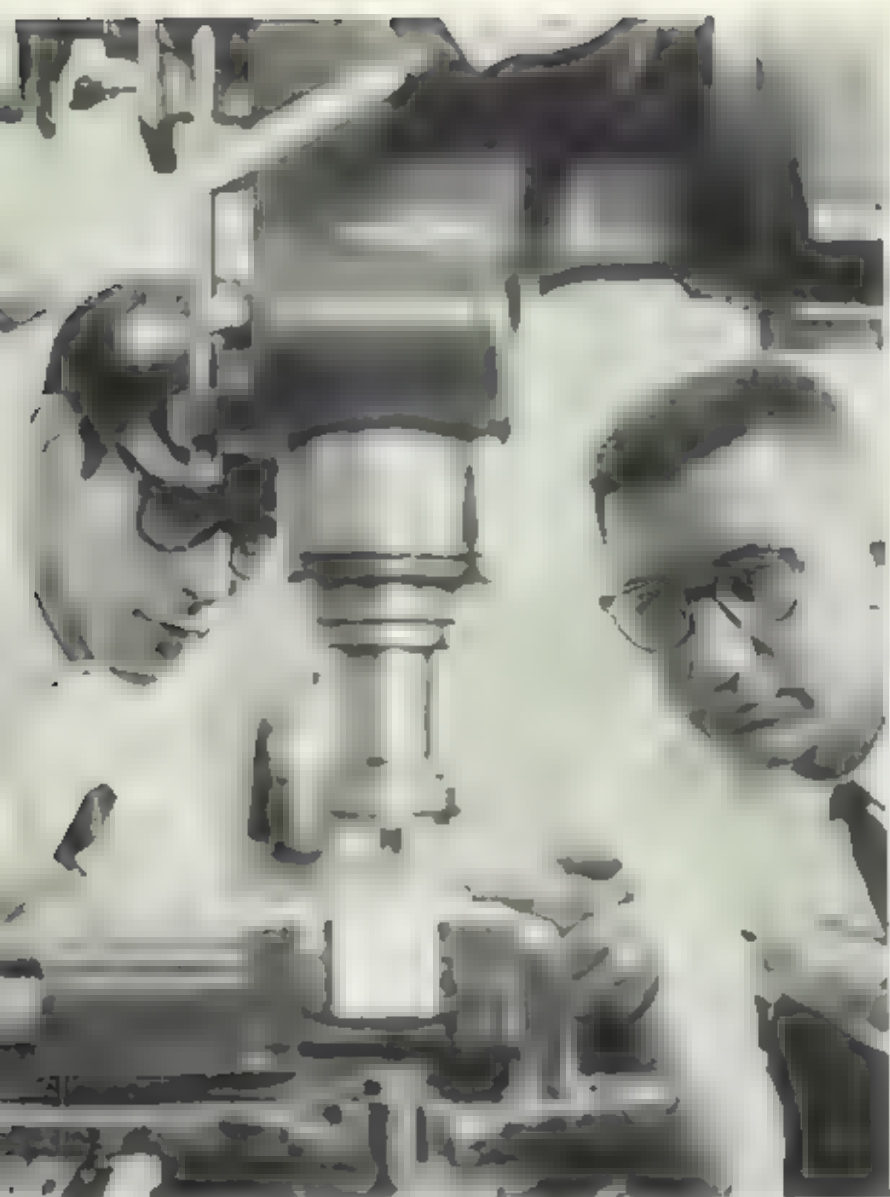

Industrial arts encourages students to explore various branches of industry by taking courses in two or more industrial arts subject areas before selecting one in which to specialize.

Variety of subject areas include industrial crafts, drafting, metal, machine shop, power mechanics, woodworking, electrical, graphic arts, industrial math and tape craft. Each subject area provides extensive training to develop individual talents to full potential.

Students who select a subject receive special recognition through area contests and showcase displays. Industrial arts experience enables student to obtain a good part-time job while furthering his education and offers valuable opportunities to gain greatly upon graduation to full-time employment.

Modern methods and tools create efficient work atmosphere. Farmon West's industrial arts department receives state recognition for its outstanding facilities.

Background and skills institute homemaking

Practicing efficient methods of entertaining, Sandy Brickey and Jackie Dorn appreciate helpful suggestions from Miss Helen Vogelsang, head of home economics department.

Home economics provides study of basic background for homemaking techniques and clinical practice to enable each student to develop individual talents.

During beginning years in home economics department, future homemakers obtain broad work knowledge of food and nutrition and gain experience with elements of sewing and interior decorating.

Finer techniques of food preparation and entertaining, clothing construction and tailoring make-up more advanced home economic study.

In child development classes, practical application of child psychology results from visits to Kettering Child Care Centers and from instruction of Red Cross nurse who presents course in Mother and Baby Care.

Home management training teaches student how to make home comfortable and happy.

Home economics department offers broad range of courses and instruction in order to offer each individual adequate opportunity to specialize in chosen field.

business study acknowledges current trends

Standards of commercial education at Fairmont West acknowledge the demands of today's world of business. Modern techniques and advanced business machines enable students to succeed in the highly competitive atmosphere of their chosen field. Courses of varying depth satisfy the needs of both business and college preparatory student.

Business students gain valuable knowledge in such realms as bookkeeping, business English, business law, business math, consumer economics, shorthand, and typing.

Cooperative office education allows qualified seniors to gain on-the-job experience in area offices. Participants in this program attend school in the morning and go to their respective places of work in the afternoon.

Knowledge and skills gained by Fairmont West's business students receive recognition and appreciation from business employers. Future business leaders develop out of this extensive program of commercial education.

to the daily welfare of West student body

Thousands of students and good wholesome food are served at West.

One reason why Farmington West is such a well-run school is that the staff is made up of experienced educators. Under Mr. Carl A. Hafterperth, principal, the school is kept clean and handsome. Mrs. Geneva Eans and the cafeteria staff provide inexpensive wholesome food. The bus drivers conduct students to and from school in safety. These people seldom seen by students do much to make West great.

West's SENIOR year is the culmination of three years of high school it is truly a year of mixed emotion
At the beginning of the year
SENIORS are elated with the idea of being the "big wheels" of West's campus and with the prospect of the long-awaited graduation so near Packed with such fulfilled events as homecoming tryouts for the Operetta and the class play and the presentation of many scholastic awards including National Merit Scholarship and letters of commendation
the SENIOR year is one of fulfillment However, toward the end of the year the SENIOR realizes that graduation also means leaving all his friends and the situation to which he has become accustomed
He must soon accustom himself to new circumstances and surroundings
It is then that the words Farmer West have the most significance for the SENIOR knows his opportunity to participate in high school is quickly drawing to a close

During the JUNIOR year
West student experience a period of transition JUNIORS enjoy the unique satisfaction of being the class in-between From the sophomore year these students have acquired poise and maturity, but they have not yet gained the confidence required of a senior JUNIORS become more college-minded as evidenced by their visit to various universities and their attendance at college conferences
When they are JUNIORS these students first learn the thrill of trying out for the Junior Class Play of being on the varsity teams and of presenting the prom in honor of the seniors JUNIORS also take numerous tests which prove that they are growing up mentally, physically, and socially
To the JUNIORS
Fairmont West
is more than a means of education—it is an integral way of life

To the SOPHOMORE finding himself at Farmont West since waking up in a new world
 There are so many new experiences awaiting the SOPHOMORE that his apprehensiveness of his first year in high school is soon forgotten
 SOPHOMORES enjoy such firsts as the excitement of the first game even if it means being only a spectator or sitting on the bench and the opportunity to belong to various organizations SOPHOMORES discover the delight that comes from campaigning for class officer and student council members planning for the class dance and selecting the long-awaited class ring in addition to participating in these diverse activities SOPHOMORES make new acquaintances many of whom will last a lifetime
 The first year in high school also requires that certain adjustments be made but such adjustments and the challenge of so many activities add to the growing maturity of each individual

Fairmont West students boast the support of one of the state's largest business areas. This highly industrialized district South of Dayton contributes wholeheartedly to the support and success of the Dragon yearbook staff. Recent advertising campaign 22 business members of the community contributed a total of $7050 towards the financing of the 1966 Dragon.

To these individuals, the students of Fairmont West owe their thanks for making possible such special features as 22 color pictures, an outstanding cover with metal type design, and a 312 page comprehensive record of the school year.

Without the support of these loyal business firms, the Dragon staff would not be able to purchase the extras that it is able to present to the 575 families living in the Kettering community. These businesses deserve the recognition of the families of the Fairmont West district. Through cooperation on the part of both the business and the families in the Kettering area, continued progress may be assured not only in future yearbooks but also in the business enterprises.

in addition to the teachers and the other members of the yearbook staff, the administration of the school, the board of trustees and faculty of Fairmont West, as well as the other administrators of the Kettering School System. Mr. Carl H. Herberth and Mr. Paul Day who assisted in the negotiations. Mr. Leano H. the many advertisers who invested $7000 in the Dragon, and the numerous parents, friends and professional patrons, all of whom had a role in the creation of this yearbook.

Most of all, the staff thanks the members of the student body for their support of the Dragon, and for caring enough about Farmont West to want a poster as a remembrance of their high school days.

Through the mist of happiness and the fog of regret Fairmont West students look back upon the memories brought to them by the 1965-1966 school year In the sinking sun light are reflections of warmth and joy of the most memorable events of the passing year Crowning a Homecoming Queen and naming a court success of a sound victory over East in football perfect performances by the band and Rhythmette Corps bustle and confusion in the halls between classes meeting friends at lockers or enjoying a few spare minutes alone in the Unit lobby decorating for the senior dance rehearsing for "Jezebel" or "The Bad Seed" making final preparations for the musical, "Damn Yankees, cross-country, wrestling, gymnastic and golf meets making plans for the prom—for the seniors, their last—110% spirit in school during basketball tournament play hysteria of a frantic crowd's winning a game by one point the tranquility of the night air after the game broken by the sound of an exhausted bus load of Dragons uniting their voices in the Alma Mater—these are the sounds of '66
 Not all remembrances are pleasant, not all are inspiring yet all have become additions to the growing register of valuable experiences and accomplishments—marking the past and present for every senior as he spends his last days on West's campus.
 As each senior anticipates his future, so does he reminisce the routine way of life to which he has become accustomed, "The West Way."
 With his final day drawing nearer, the tension increases
 Now each graduating senior leaves West's pride a little dimmer until new seniors step forward.
 With each senior goes a part of Fairmont West from each senior West gains indelible imprints in all areas.
 Finally, the silhouette of a senior, seen through a tear remains the lone speck of light in the halls of Fairmont West.
